

WARNING!

Before you enter the store,
let us warn you about something.

This isn't a big box store or a chain or something you've seen before: it might seem a little unusual or almost odd.

People here might greet you with something like "nice to see you" or "hello how are you?" and actually mean it. I hope you'll realize that's considered being friendly and just something we do here.

Our selection might be different than from other stores and a little unusual compared to a corporate chain (where everything might look the same). I hope this inspires you to try new things: maybe a different style of jeans or a new pair of boots...because what we really want is for you to see, feel and enjoy the difference.

We might be the kind of place you've never been in before and that's okay...because being a real genuine small business, we are different and pretty unique!
